Australia part of EU's plans to deepen Asia Pacific trade strategy

To mark European Trade Policy Day Trade Commissioner Cecilia Malmström declared a need for more engagement between the European Union, the world's largest economy, and Australia. Commissioner Malmström also highlighted the importance of the EU's trade relationship with Australia and the need to deepen the EU's Asia Pacific strategy with Australia and New Zealand as important regional players.

The comments come after data issued by the Australian Bureau of Statistics (ABS) on 22 June 2015 revealed the EU remained Australia's largest trading partner in services in 2014, representing 19.9%, or $A26.0bn of Australia's total services trade (+4% on 2013).

Greece default and referendum

Greece has become the first advanced economy to default to the IMF by not making its €1.6 billion loan repayment which was due to the IMF by 30 June 2015. The country's stalemate with its international creditors and the decision to hold a referendum on its bailout has broad implications. It is suggested that by calling on the Greek people to vote "no" in a referendum this Sunday, 5 July 2015, on implementing austerity measures creditors want, Tsipras is hoping that the Greek population will send a clear message to Europe. But Greece's departure from the Eurozone could be looming.

The ministers of 18 euro area member states continued to hold talks on the further steps to be taken following the breakdown of negotiations between the institutions and the Greek authorities. In the statement issued following the discussion, ministers said that the euro area member states intend to make full use of all the instruments available to preserve the integrity and stability of the eurozone. These instruments will complement any actions that the European Central Bank may decide to take.

New Danish Prime Minister

Following on from the results of the Danish election on 18 June, on 28th June the new Danish Prime Minister Lars Løkke Rasmussen presented his new government after having officially accepted the post following a meeting with Queen Margrethe II. The Danish government will comprise 17 members all from the Venstre Party given the inability of the parties in the centre and right to come to a consensus over the composition of the new executive. Lars Løkke Rasmussen and the Venstre Party came third in the Danish general elections on 18th June behind the Social Democratic Party and the Danish People's Party. However, the support of the People's Party, the Liberal Alliance and the People's Conservative Party enabled the Venstre leader to form a government with 34 mandates, the smallest Danish government since 1973.

17th EU—China Summit

On 29 June in Brussels the 17th EU/China Summit took place. It marked the 40th anniversary of diplomatic relations between the two sides. During this summit China and the EU lauded the progress achieved in the implementation of the strategic agenda for cooperation and they agreed on cooperation in the energy sector. Moreover China and the EU maintained that they wanted to work together for peace, development and human rights in the world. Regarding Ukraine both sides called for the respect of the Minsk Agreements and said that they would like to see a diplomatic settlement to the conflict.

HAWKE @ ICAS 9: Plural diversities and the politics of migrant encounter

Speaker: Professor Brenda S.A. Yeoh, Provost's Chair, Department of Geography, Dean, Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences, National University of Singapore

Location: Riverbank Room 5, Adelaide Convention Centre, Adelaide SA 5000

This lecture, presented by the Hawke Research Institute in partnership with the International Convention of Asia Scholars (ICAS), explores Singapore as a nation-city-state with high globalising ambitions - criss-crossed by a high density of transnational flows of international students, labour migrants, "foreign talent" and marriage migrants. In this lecture, Professor Yeoh looks at a range of city "contact zones" to illustrate the spatialised politics of encounters.

Professor Yeoh argues that the politics of city diversity requires acknowledging the migrant "other" across a range of public and private spaces - where "the other" may be "strange" and "unfamiliar", but may well be "intimate" and even "familial".

Asylum, human rights and international law: Australian and EU perspectives

Speaker: Professor Gillian Triggs, President of the Australian Human Rights Commission

Location: Allan Scott Auditorium, Hawke Building, City West Campus, (Live broadcast: Bradley Forum, Level 5, Hawke Building)

Asylum seeker policy has been a major political issue in Australia since the Tampa affair in 2001. Australia's key policies regarding asylum seekers who arrive by boat, namely mandatory immigration detention and third country processing, have the support of both major political parties.

This lecture will explore the global context in terms of populations seeking protection, and the international legal principles which apply to Australia and other countries under the Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the Convention on the Rights of the Child. It will focus on Australia's policies and how they fit within this international context, and discuss the role and work of the Australian Human Rights Commission, particularly its recent National Inquiry into Children in Immigration Detention. The lecture will conclude with some comments about the challenges and possible opportunities for asylum seeker policy in the future.

European Neighbourhood Policy Summer School—Ph.D. Summer School in Poland, Israel and Palestine

Location: Poland, Israel, Palestine

Following the success of previous ENP Ph.D. Summer Schools, the European Neighborhood Policy Chair at the College of Europe, Natolin campus, in collaboration with the Centre for the Study of European Politics and Society (CSEPS) at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev (BGU) and the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung (KAS; Jerusalem Office and Ramallah Office), is organizing the third Ph.D. Summer School on “The ENP under Pressure: The EU and the Eastern and the Southern Neighbourhoods”, from 23 June to 5 July 2015 at the College of Europe, Natolin campus (Warsaw) , at BGU (Beer Sheva) and at KAS (Jerusalem and Ramallah).

The Ph.D. Summer School will concentrate on the dynamics between the European Union (EU) and its eastern and southern neighborhoods, and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict with a special focus on the revised European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP) framework, which is currently undergoing yet another review process. It will analyze the evolution and implications of the ENP, the social and political transformations in the neighboring countries, issues related to conflict and territorial occupation, and discuss how the most recent developments in the ENP countries, as well as in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, influence EU policies and politics.

The purpose of this summer school is to bring together and train a group of Ph.D. students in theoretical, empirical and research-strategic issues on the subject matter, as well as encourage the exchange of their expertise. Additionally, the aim is to support the participants in furthering their research projects. The Ph.D. Summer School invites political science applicants who specialize in various sub-disciplines, including EU Integration Studies, International Relations, Comparative Politics, Peace and Conflict Studies, and Public Administration.

Race, Mobility and Imperial Networks: Charting the Transnational Asia-Pacific World, 1800-2015

Location: Melbourne

'Race, Mobility and Imperial Networks' will be a multi-disciplinary conference co-hosted by RMIT University and La Trobe University. In the wake of the transnational turn, we have begun to appreciate the global networks that produced and continue to produce imperial spaces. The world of the Pacific Rim, encompassing the Pacific Islands, Australia, New Zealand and British Columbia; the Americas and Asia was partly defined by mobility, ocean-crossings and forced migration. It is also a space that has been configured by European, American and Asian imperial powers with attending notions of racial or ethnic taxonomies.

The European Conference on Politics, Economics and Law 2015 (ECPEL2015)

Location: Brighton, United Kingdom

The theme of the 2015 ECPEL conference is "Power". Power as a commodity has challenged the minds of social scientists and philosophers while its exercise has always fascinated historians. From classical thinkers' works such as Aristotle's Politika or Machiavelli's Il Principe through modern figures who manipulate power in the media, like Silvio Berlusconi or Rupert Murdoch, to the vast networks that support major heads of state, power has been a necessity to some or like an aphrodisiac to others. The dynamics of power and its associations with wealth and status now shape the contemporary world more visibly than ever. It is a research challenge to all fields of the social sciences.

The European Conference on Sustainability, Energy & the Environment 2015 (ECSEE2015)

Location: Brighton, United Kingdom

The theme of the 2015 ECSEE Conference, taking place from 9–12 July 2015, is "Power & Sustainability". Sustainability remains as a powerful ideal that acts as a driving force in relation to the pressing concerns of energy and the environment. Its proponents often protest their lack of power to effect change because of the control systems already in place in the form of tax-evading multinational corporations, banks that support them, and governments that turn a blind eye to malpractice. Is the claim to lack of power as serious as is alleged, or are there other approaches? Advocates of sustainable growth surely have the responsibility to search for alternative avenues and corridors of power? The abolition of slavery in the British Empire, for example, was the work of one man who resisted and confounded the argument that no economy could survive without it. This conference will take the concepts and lenses of power and sustainability as we seek multidisciplinary solutions and work together towards the creation of a sustainable world.

DUE: European Narratives, Europe and the EU in the 21st century as a Political, Social and Cultural Construction

Location: Institute of European Studies of the Jagiellonian University, Krakow, Poland

Discussing & Understanding Europe (DUE) is a series of conferences organised biannually by the Institute of European Studies at the Jagiellonian University in Krakow. The conference is a forum for discussion on social, cultural and political processes amidst the changing face of Europe. A scenario of disintegration of the European Union is one of the greatest challenges of Europe in the second decade of the 21st century. It generates a number of topical questions:

Can United Europe in its present shape work effectively?

Are the future plans for further integration both realistic and sensible - or merely doomed to remain on paper?

If United Europe is something more than a project on paper, where can it be found and what could stem from its future development?

Interdisciplinary in their nature, DUE conferences discuss European processes from a variety of perspectives: sociology, political sciences, cultural studies, anthropology, history, law, linguistics and many more.

European Narratives Europe and the European Union in the 21st Century as Political, Social and Cultural Constructions

This year's DUE conference will be an opportunity to exchange opinions on the subject of the multidimensional transformation process of Europe and the European Union. We believe that every public representation of the "European Narrative" contains a particular aspect of reality, open to interpretation but also forming the basis for the construction of discourse which may bring genuine results.

Conference topics include: narratives and rhetoric types for the integration/disintegration of Europe in the context of the political and economic crisis - the discourse of the past and future of the European Union (including Eurosceptic, Eurorealist, Euroenthusiast, crisis and post-crisis, political-institutional, social dynamics and change, nation-centric, federalist, post and transnational, cosmopolitan, normative, axiological, futuristic, civic)

- The process of political, social and cultural change in Europe (Europeanization, its contexts and representations)

- The architecture and discourse of security in Europe (common security policy in the context of contemporary threats)
- The European legal space - directions for development, current debates and controversies
- European identity at the crossroads: migration and the crisis of multiculturalism
- European democracy, its actors and imaginations - at the level of civic associations, urban movements and local, regional, national and European federal government
- The crisis of social trust and the crisis of the political legitimacy of integration

- The evolution and devolution of European institutions

Horizon 2020

Closing date: project dependent

Horizon 2020, the new EU Research and Innovation program, is a Europe 2020 flagship initiative aimed at securing Europe's global competitiveness. Funding is based on competitive calls open to everyone, also to organisations/individuals outside the EU. Participants from countries associated to the EU research framework program have the same rights as EU participants; for other countries, the situation varies. Funding in the 2014 budget is focused on the three key pillars of Horizon 2020:

- Excellent Science: Around €3 billion, including €1.7 billion for grants from the European Research Council for top scientists and €800 million for Marie Skłodowska-Curie fellowships for younger researchers (see MEMO/13/1123).
- Industrial Leadership: €1.8 billion to support Europe's industrial leadership in areas like ICT, nanotechnologies, advanced manufacturing, robotics, biotechnologies and space.

- Societal challenges: €2.8 billion for innovative projects addressing Horizon 2020's seven societal challenges, broadly: health; agriculture, maritime and bio economy; energy; transport; climate action, environment, resource efficiency and raw materials; reflective societies; and security.
